DUTCH TAXES
ARE INCREASED.War Puts Additional Burden
on the Hollanders.People with More than One Front Name Hit Hard.As a Rule Wealthier Classes Pay the Most.

(A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.)

THE HAGUE (Netherlands) Nov.

The Dutch people are to be called upon to pay nearly $5 per head more taxes every year in the national exchequer as a direct result of the war. Hitherto the annual taxation of the country has usually amounted to something over $20,000,

000 in round figures, or about $16.20 per capita, but the new bill just laid before Parliament brings the annual total up to approximately $105,000,

000 or $21 per capita.

Besides increasing the ratio of already existing taxes, the government has decided to impose ones which directly affect capitalists, holders of stocks and bonds, pensioners, persons not belonging to the army or navy, institutions enjoying incomes from quests, drivers of registered documents, railroad and street car travelers, smokers, card players, and possessors of more than one front name.

Marie Willem Frederik Treub, Minister of Finance, who himself will come into the latter category, has the task before him of convincing the Dutch public of the necessity of these inroads upon its income. It is generally assumed, however, in Parliament circles, that Dutchmen as a rule will coincide with him in the view that it is better to pay the higher taxes rendered necessary by the national defense than to leave the National public at the mercy of the other of the fighting nations which might see fit to enter its territory in order to further its military ends.

EXPENSIVE ARMY.

The sum of the increased annual appropriations for the Dutch army and navy (now together about $22,- 500,000), does not appear very big when compared with the present military budgets of other nations. The Netherlands, however, make only a very small spot on the map and the addition for this purpose of $3,300,-

000 to the already existing expenses of $5,000,000 inhabitants is regarded as a considerable further burden.

One of the principal points of objection by the Dutch public against the newly-proposed taxes is that con-

EIGHTY PERSONS KILLED
BY DYNAMITING A TRAIN.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 25.—Eighty persons were killed in the dynam-iting of a train on the National Lines of Mexico between Tampico and Monterrey on November 23, according to advices which reached here yesterday. There was no official confirmation from any Mexican government official.

Trains on this route have not been running for the past two days, but no reason for the suspension of service has been announced.

The country between Tampico and Monterrey is exceedingly mountainous and has been infested for the past six months with bandits. It is said they formerly were connected with Villa's army.

BERSEMUEDE.

[BY WIRELESS AND A. P.]

BERLIN, Nov. 25 (via Sayville,

N. Y.).—Announcement was made by the War Office today that the Russian town of Bersemuede was firmly in German hands. The number of prisoners has been increased to nine officers, and 750 men. Three machine guns were taken.

Bersemuede is near the north end of the Russian front in the Iloukat district, south of Riga. Heavy fighting has been in progress in this district for several weeks in connection with the German attempt to take Riga.

Capture of Bersemuede by the Russians was announced at Petrograd on November 11.

At the Wednesday hearing, he stated that he had offered leniency to Harrison if the latter positively had none of the stolen property in his possession and would confess and acquit in the affair, thus helping to get a true story of what actually happened to the banker. Yesterday he declared that he would deplore any admissions made by Harrison or his attorneys to the effect that he had promised complete immunity.

WORKING TOWARD FULL CAPACITY.

(SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.)
GLOBE (APR) Nov. 26.—The new Inspiration mill at Miami is now handling 5000 tons of ore a day and is to be worked up gradually, upon completion of additional concentration units to full capacity of 14,000 tons. This, it is expected, will be reached in January.

The present copper production of 4,000,000 pounds a month will nearly be tripled next year. With copper at 18 cents the increased output's value would reach the astonishing total of $14,000,000 annually. The production cost is expected to be even less than 7 cents a pound.

Owing to the richness of the ore holed, even a lower cost is reported from the Magna property at Superior where, it is asserted, copper is being produced at only 5.72 cents a pound. This mine has a small concentrating mill but is shipping its richer ore. The Magna, controlled by the Hayden-Stone corporation, is one of the remarkable mines of the Southwest and the wonder is that it is not operated on a much larger scale.

Costs at the Old Dominion are reported around 14 cents on a production expected to be about 30,000,000 pounds for the current year. The output was diminished materially by reason of springtime floods. The Ray Consolidated will pass the 7,000,000-pounds mark in copper yield this year, with costs a shade under 9 cents a pound, showing a profit of about $6,500,000. At the end of the year the company will convert into stock a bond issue of $2,380,000. The treasury surplus now is over $5,000,000.

At Mrs. Shem's right side sat Mrs.
Irene Murphy, the gray-haired slayer of her husband. As the music stole into her heart, she burst into tears.
They streamed down her face, giving relief to a burdened soul. There was another woman charged with murder, Mrs.
Maybelle Smith, who bowed her head and wept, and she, like Mrs. Murphy, later raised her head and smiled through her tears.

In the men's wards Thanksgiving Day was celebrated with the best dinner of the year. The turkey was tender, the pies melted in the mouth, and the other dainties were succulent.
Jailer Gallagher moved among his wards with a kindly word for each one. The prisoners are his boys; he gives them the best he has, and he never fails to impress on them that while to them the world may be dark, there is a silver lining to the cloud overshadowing them.

The menu was excellently served. It consisted of celery soup, turkey, roast pork, salad, cranberry jelly, sweet potatoes, corn, pickles, olives, mince

Menace to Americans

us that the tide at last has turned.
The financial stringency that has hampered and hindered material development and expansion is passing out, and now it is only a question of time when the prosperity of a year or two ago will come back in larger and richer measure. As we recall these material conditions our hearts overflow with gratitude to Him who is the giver of every good and perfect gift.

"In the third place I thank God from the very bottom of my heart for the recent pronouncement of Mr. Wilson regarding our national defenses.
This middle-of-the-road position no doubt has disappointed many. But it has saved us from the dangers of the militarist on the one hand and from the equally dangerous policy of the pacifist on the other.

"There are those who think that the present conditions demand that we should arm ourselves up to the hilt. It would be impossible to exaggerate the fatuous folly of such a position. There are, on the other hand, those who think that our insular position is quite sufficient protection, and they claim that the money spent in maintaining and training men and in manufacturing armaments and munitions is just so much money thrown away.

"In view of the facts that face us today no nation that is unprepared is safe for a single hour, and the nation that closes her eyes and ears to the necessity of preparedness is fit for the lunatic asylum. And so our President has steered us between the Scylla of Militarism on the one hand and the Charybdis of pacifism on the other, for which we owe him a debt of gratitude that will be very difficult to repay.

"But the mere expression of gratitude is not enough. It is far from enough. We need, as a recent writer has said, to Christianize our gratitude.
He meant by that that the central principle in the gospel of Jesus was the fact that he came not to be ministered unto but to minister and to give His life a ransom for many.

"My plea then, is this, that while we note the blessings that we enjoy and thank in deepest gratitude and thanksgiving the giver of them all, we should be using these gifts for the benefit of those less fortunately situated round about us. We should take of our plenty to feed the hungry and to clothe the naked. We should bend all our energies to use our present strategic position to help our brethren beyond the seas to a better understanding.

"Don't let us be content merely to keep out of the struggle. Let us be willing to go to the extent of almost sacrificing our peace in the endeavor nations of the earth. This is the way

TO FIGHT DIVORCE.
Millionaire Files General Denial to Charges of Wife and Will Contest
Sensational Allegations.

Answering the divorce suit of Mrs.
Annie C. Stimson with a general denial of the sensational allegations, Ezra F.
Stimson will fight the action. Interwoven in this suit is another action brought by Mrs. Stimson to safeguard security valued at $1,000,000, which she alleged were in danger of being squandered by Mr. Stimson. The name of Miss Virginia Gay, an attractive young nurse, was mentioned by Mrs. Stimson as the alleged disturbing element.

There is still another suit which was brought by Mr. Stimson demanding possession of the securities taken from a safe deposit box by Mrs. Stimson and later placed with another bank on the order of the court, pending the trial of the suit. Mrs. Stimson has filed an answer, declaring the securities represent community property. She asks that this suit be held back until the allegations in the divorce suit have been heard. She is receiving alimony of $1500 a month.

Thanksgiving dinner at the Union Rescue Mission yesterday.
More dinners were served here to the poor, needy and down-and-out than at any other place in the city yesterday.
Between 1000 and 1500 persons were fed.

a goodly portion from Dame Fortune but also among the less fortunate in the city, yesterday. While in fashionable churches and palatial homes thanks were returned that America is not embroiled in the world war, among the friendless and unfortunates congregated at rescue missions and other places there was genuine gratitude for words of cheer and a substantial meal.

At the Union Rescue Mission, No.
145 North Main street, about 1000 hungry men, women and children were served by Superintendent Benton and a corps of about twenty assistants. Invitations to the banquet had been distributed broadcast for several days and these were exchanged for yellow tickets of admittance at religious services conducted at the mission chapel.

A copy of the gospel of St. John was given each guest as a souvenir.
Practically all supplies used yesterday were donated directly by wholesale merchants and local businessmen. Among those who aided Mr.
Benton yesterday were many church women, a few of whom came from teach and other out-of-town resorts.

HUNDREDS DINE.
At Christ's Mission, No. 216 South
San Pedro street, Rev. H. A. Sullivan, superintendent, assisted by members of the Endeavor Society and pastors of the Christian churches of the city and neighboring towns, cared for about 650 wayfarers and unfortunates. Following services in the mission chapel, at which tickets were issued, the guests were taken in groups of 100 each to the mission dining-room, which had been decorated for the occasion.

A regular Thanksgiving dinner was served, with roast beef replacing the proverbial turkey. So much did it appear to many of the first guests that Rev. Mr. Sullivan was moved to comment when they appeared in line some two hours later, after strenuously walking around the block in the interim. However, even the repeat-ers were eventually satisfied and Mrs.
J. L. Ballinger, who officiated in the kitchen, wiped her brow and thankfully removed her apron. Miss Edith Whitney, who superintended the dining-room, declared she had never seen so many hungry people in her life. She stated a noticeable percentage of the guests had taken their cocktail before coming.

Jewish orphans at the orphanage of Huntington Park were guests at Levy's Cafe, No. 739 South Spring street. About 100 boys and girls ate turkey and drank milk cocktails while a force of waiters kept the plates full. Many Jewish society folks assisted in making the day pleasant for the little ones. When it was all over and Al Levy, with two assistants, had removed the last grimy thumb-mark from his shirt front, two little tots came back and insisted on imprinting moist kisses of thanksgiving on "Paddy Levy's" bald spot.
"This is the happiest day of my life," said Mr. Levy, "I really wished them to the door."

About 300 newboys and other children and several men and women who would have gone turkeyless otherwise were entertained by F. C.
Ganshli at the Portola Cafe. First and spring stews, an elaborate turkey dinner, with oyster dressing and cranberry sauce, was served and cabaret performers entertained.

SONG AND TEARS.
The soft tones of an organ stole through the women's ward of the County Jail yesterday. Busy with their thoughts, brightened for the day by the dainties served at the Thanksgiving Day dinner and the sympathetic words of Matron Shelli, the women prisoners for crimes ranging from murder to contributing, bent their heads and listened. Then a thin, sweet voice was raised, and the words of "A Perfect Day" floated through the rooms. It was a voluntary offering, and into the music the player, Little Lucy Shem, a Chinese woman, wove the yearning of her heart, a prayer, as it were, that she may soon prisoners in the City Jail yesterday.

Especially was it so for the women, who fared even better than the men, owing to the increased generosity of a former inmate of that ward.

A few days ago the outlook for a festive meal was indeed poor for the city prisoners. Chief Jailer Shand had received no instructions concerning Thanksgiving preparations, and until a day before it looked as if "beef and" would be the diet.

Then, unexpectedly, a former prisoner of the women's ward, who was discharged some time ago as a cured inmate, sent a substantial check to Policewoman Hamm, with instructions that it be used exclusively for purchasing a good dinner for the women inmates. The donor added the request that at the end of the feast, if the women prisoners could be told how she has conquered drink and is now living a clean life, she would feel amply repaid for the gift.

As a result, the women prisoners sat down at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon to a turkey dinner, the bird having been the largest Mrs. Hamm could procure from a heavily-drained market. Smaller donations of cranberry sauce, pickles, olives and other accessories, sent in by friends and relatives of the prisoners, rounded out a Thanksgiving repast to be envied by many who are outside of jail.

NOT SO BAD.
The men prisoners fared better than they at first expected. In some inconceivable manner, Jailer Shand managed to get the regular prison fare, in addition to beef and mashed potatoes the inmates received cranberries, apple pie, fruit and coffee that contained milk and sugar.

During the day many persons visited the prisoners, distributing fruit and cakes. Song services were held in various parts of the jail. The spirit of Thanksgiving permeated even the jailers, and visitors were allowed to remain longer than usual with incarcerated friends.

At the close of the women's feast, the request of the former woman prisoner was fulfilled. The hearers were well fed and listened with benign attitudes to the messages.

And after it was all over a peaceful quiet descended on the jail. Some dreamed of another dinner to be enjoyed when their terms expired, while others began counting the days before Christmas.

Children at Juvenile Hall forgot for a day that they were in a house of correction. Like their more fortunate friends, they enjoyed a big turkey dinner with all the trimmings. Mrs. K.
J. Haw, superintendent, also gave them greater freedom than they have enjoyed for weeks past. Games of all kinds were played during the day, and in the evening a special musical programme was provided.

cause for Thanksgiving because of the peace that dwells in this land.
The sermon was delivered by Rev.
Dan Trundle, pastor of the Highland Park Christian Church, his subject being "Thanksgiving in the Church."

The speaker said his hearers should give thanks for the fact that they were in the church, as it is an expression of the Christlike and through it is resolved the highest inspiration as Christians and citizens, and as fathers and mothers. In so far as a man fails to be a good father, said the speaker, he fails to be a good Christian.

He set forth as one reason for thankfulness in the church the fact that this is an age of plainness, so that all may understand. He read extracts from a sermon delivered thirty-three years ago, and declared that not a man or woman in the congregation could understand it, but that this period fortunately is past, and even the children can grasp the truths of Christianity, as they are taught today. Men hunger and thirst after righteousness, said the speaker, and rejoice that the sermons, the books and the literature and songs are all so plain that all may comprehend.

A cause of thanksgiving, he declared, is the practical aspect that today is put into religion. Not many years ago churches with from 500 to 600 members would have only twenty-five or thirty members who composed the "working" force. Today it is the aim to secure the direct work of all.

"Another cause for thankfulness is the positive spirit that today permeates the churches," he said.
"Men want no negative religion. They want it positive and optimistic.
Pessimism is a synonym of doubt, a

GLAD TO BE ALIVE.
 When it comes to Thanksgiving there are a lot of people in America who haven't any more sense than to be happy. It is hard to make a pessimist out of a man who has good digestion and a clear conscience.

BIRDS OF A FEATHER.
 There ought to be a law in California preventing turkeys from growing beyond all reasonable proportions. A man at San Gabriel raised a big bird of turkeys for the Thanksgiving market, but only one of them weighed as little as fifteen pounds when dressed, while three of them, sold in a single day, weighed thirty-six pounds each. We insist that a turkey of that size is not a turkey but a cassowary or an ostrich.

LEGAL HOLIDAYS.
 The birthday of Abraham Lincoln (February 12) is a legal holiday in only two Southern States (Delaware and West Virginia), while that of Robert E. Lee (January 19) is a legal holiday in eight Southern States, and that of Jefferson Davis (January 19) in six Southern States.

Confederate memorial days are legal holidays in ten Southern States, while Union Memorial Day is a legal holiday in only five Southern States—Kentucky, Maryland, Missouri, West Virginia and Tennessee.

Thanksgiving Day is a legal holiday wherever appointed, except in Hawaii. The Kanakas do not feel that they have anything to be thankful for.

New Year's Day is a legal holiday in every State except Massachusetts. Those Boston Yankees are so overwhelmed with grief at the death of the old year that they have no cradle songs for the new year.

Columbus Day (October 12) is a legal holiday in forty-three jurisdictions, and Fast Day, whenever appointed, is a legal holiday in thirty-two jurisdictions.

California has twelve legal holidays during the year. New Year's Day (January 1), Washington's birthday (February 22), Decoration Day (May 30), Independence Day (July 4), Admission Day (September 9), Columbus Day (October 12), Thanksgiving Day (whenever appointed), Christmas Day (December 25), Fast Day (whenever appointed), general election day, primary election day and Labor Day.

On November 23 Frederick county, Maryland (the home of Barbara Fritchie), has made a legal holiday of "Reputation Day," though what it is her people repudiate—whether bad debts or bad habits—The Times has been unable to ascertain.

There are different ways of doing honor to the memories of illustrious men and notable events. Some people take to praying and orations, some to dinners and indignation and others to horse races, auto races, baseball matches and prize fights.

GERMAN WAR FINANCE.
 German war finance can best be described as being carried on by means of a gigantic state pawnshop with branches ramifying throughout the land. Note-issuing concerns—war-loan banks, war-aid banks, war-credit banks and mortgage banks—established throughout the country for the purpose of making advances against real and personal property. Advances to the extent of 75 per cent, are being made on government securities and to the extent of 45 per cent on other securities and on produce, while by means of the mortgage banks advances are being made on the mortgage of properties. These advances are not made in gold, but in notes, which are made legal tender and perform the usual functions of money. With the advances (notes) thus obtained on pledged security the German people are enabled to subscribe to the successive war loans, says the Protectionist of Boston.

German money has virtually become pawn tickets of varying denominations, expressed in multiples of marks or in subdivisions of a mark and having an enforced currency for the payment of goods, of services and of debts. As long as these notes, issued against a miscellaneous assortment of real and personal property, will be accepted by the farmer in payment for his grain, by the workman for his labor, there is no reason why the war, from the German economic standpoint, should not go on. The whole system rests on the implicit confidence that these "pawn tickets" will always be accepted by others in payment for goods and services and will eventually be redeemed. For a time there is nothing to prevent all the internal exchange operations being conducted in Germany with their customary smoothness; but the savins of the German people are nevertheless being consumed by the war at the rate of out of $10,000,000 a day, and a rift in the lute was sprung early by a depreciation in the currency. The trader in foreign countries was naturally the first to feel out this depreciation; gradually, however, the people will become painfully aware that the prices of commodities are advancing or, what is the same thing, the purchasing power of the inconvertible paper currency is diminishing.

Emission after emission of fresh paper currency will have to be made by the government, until the country is flooded with depreciated paper. The gap between gold prices and paper prices will grow wider; the debtor class in Germany will increasingly gain at the expense of the creditor class, and the other economic evils that are bound to follow in the train of a depreciated paper currency can hardly fail to double the ill consequences that most independently result from a great war.

RECORDS AND REPEAL.
 Secretary Treas of the United States Chamber of Commerce, an organization which represents 300,000 business firms, individuals and business corporations, presented on Tuesday night to the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce the plan of the business men of the nation of "preparedness"—not for war, but for peace.

The plan is simple and elastic. It consists of "the injection of efficiency into the government's business methods," "an adequate merchant marine" and "a nonpartisan tariff commission."

The "injection of efficiency into the government's business methods" would be accomplished by the repeal of meddlesome laws which cramp and muddle private business. Congress has not gone nearly so far in the creation of trouble-fostering commissions as did Gov. Johnson and his Legislature, but it went too far, and by backing squarely out by means of repealing laws it would "inject" a whole lot of efficiency into the "government's business methods."

Aid, and valuable aid, in the creating of "an adequate merchant marine" would be given by seizing the La Follette seamen's law by the scruff of its enacting clause and the seat of its terminating sentence, characterizing it as a specimen of experimental legislation promoted by an impractical Princeton schoolmaster who, by the wrath of God or the dispensations of the devil, was placed in the White House, and throwing it into the limbo of things lost on earth.

A "nonpartisan tariff commission" to settle a question which has been a partisan question for half a century is a contradiction in terms, yet such a commission might be desirable, for it would afford President Wilson a chance to save his face in that it would necessarily result in a repeal of the present free-trade tariff law and in a restoration of the duty on sugar, wool, hides, lumber, agricultural products and many manufactured articles—in brief, in a restoration of the Republican policy of protection to American industry.

It would be the longest way around to reach the shortest way home. Still it would enable us to reach the home of prosperity, which Democracy stamped the people from three years ago.

PROGRAMME OF LABOR-UNION DYNAMITERS.

The administration of President Taft exhibited commendable zeal in the prosecution, conviction and punishment of members of the Gompers gang who were guilty of transporting dynamite for criminal use over a waterway controlled by the United States government.

Mr. Charles L. Fryar of the "Greater San Francisco Electric Shop," in a recent letter to United States Attorney-General Gregory, says:

"We have, on this Coast, a large number of parasites, who neither toll nor spin, but who go about the country boasting of their voting strength—frightening Governors, Senators and such into obedient panics—these same nonproducers also use dynamite to destroy factories and mills and other useful equipment for the promotion of the general welfare of the human race. I know of a certain labor leader who recently resided at Leavenworth, Kan., but who was allowed to enjoy a vacation in San Francisco, Cal. Said L. L. is charged with having paid $500 for the blowing up by dynamite of the Kendall Mills in Oakland."

The threatened renewal of dynamiting activities by the murderous and cowardly scoundrels who have succeeded in gaining undue influence with, if not absolute control, of the labor-union organizations of the country is largely due to the fact that President Wilson is unduly influenced in dealing with the labor problem by Secretary of Labor Wilson and Secretary Wilson is controlled by Samuel Gompers, and Gompers is the instigating devil of riot over all the land.

It is only the least intelligent of workingmen who are influenced by the activities of the Gompers vermin or heed the utterances of the L.W.W. orators. The Times will reprint a few of these utterances to show good citizens what is in store for them if they permit labor-unionism to dominate their industries.

Jack London, who poses as a Socialist, writes: "We intend nothing less than to destroy existing society and to take the whole world. If the law of the land permits, we fight for this end peacefully at the ballot box. If the law of the land does not permit the peaceful destruction of society, and if we have force meted out to us, we resort to force ourselves. In Russia the revolutionists kill the officers of the government. I am a revolutionist."

Those who are familiar with Jack London's career in Alaska say that on one occasion, when Jack had "force meted out to him" by a barkeeper from whom he had vainly solicited credit, Jack did not resort to force. He resorted to flight, with the mark of a "swart" on his forehead and the imprint of a boot heel on the seat of his pantaloons.

Harry Quelch is another preacher of the gospel of hate. He said: "We are prepared, my friends, to use any means, any weapon—from the ballot to the bomb; from organized voting to organized revolt; from parliamentary contests to political assassination—which opportunity offers and which will help in the end we have in view. Let this be understood: we have absolutely no scruples as to the means to be employed." The end that the police had in view when they mounted the labor-union rostrum and plucked Harry therefrom was the end of Harry's shirt protruding from a rent in the seat of his pantaloons.

Archibald Crawford's soap-box speech was brief, but it became a classic among his followers. It was: "Damn the boss! Damn the boss's son! Damn his family carriage! And damn his family, too!"

Heron is another soap-box orator who is afflicted with delirium of verbiage. He has the turkey-trot Jim-jams of speech. He says: "Our whole system of life and labor, with all that we call civilization, is based on nothing else than war; a war so terrible, so full of death, that its blood is upon every human hand, upon every leaf of bread, and upon every human institution. It is only folly, or worse, falsehood, that prates of peace in such a society."

Debs, who gets $5000 per annum, besides lecture fees and expenses, for talking to labor unions at 25 cents per, says: "As a revolutionist I can have no respect for capitalist property laws or the least scruple about violating them. I hold all such laws to have been enacted by chicanery, fraud and corruption, with the sole end in view of dispossessing, robbing and enslaving the working class."

The Wishbone.

ple about violating them. I hold all such laws to have been enacted by chicanery, fraud and corruption, with the sole end in view of dispossessing, robbing and enslaving the working class."

It is claimed by those who say they are not Socialists, but merely labor-unionists, that they do not advocate taking from capitalists either their money or their machinery of production; all they propose is that the labor unions shall dictate to capitalists the manner in which they shall conduct their business; that the labor union, and not the capitalist, shall fix the wages and the hours of labor of the workers, and shall select the men to be employed, and that if the capitalist declines to submit his business to the supervision of a walking delegate, and ventures, to give work to a non-union man, so that he can supply his wife and little ones with bread and shelter, then the refractory capitalist will be picketed and boycotted, and in extreme cases his works dynamited and himself assassinated.

Of what benefit has militant labor-unionism been to the honest workmen of Los Angeles? What good has the advice of Gompers and Tveitmo and Giovanniotti and Darrow and Debs and McCarthy and Job Harriman ever done them? Have they ever obtained value received for the rake-offs from their wages that the L.W.W. leaders have exacted from them?

ELECTRIC LOCOMOTIVES.

The long-promised substitution of electricity for steam on long lines of railway is about to take place. Early next month the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway will give a "tryout" to the first of its new immense electric locomotives that are to haul freight and passenger trains over the mountain divisions from Harlowton, Mont., to Avery, Idaho. In January a trolley system will be placed in operation and steam traction abandoned over a 440-mile stretch. This, with other work in operation or nearly completed, will give the St. Paul and Milwaukee road 640 miles operating under the electric system. This will cost the road $15,000,000 for installation, but will immensely reduce the cost of operating the road.

Fifty electrical locomotives will be required for the mountain divisions of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul. The first one of these has just been placed on exhibition in Chicago. It weighs 260 tons. Its engines are 112 feet long. The drivers are fifty-two inches in diameter and are spaced at ten-foot intervals. This locomotive will haul 2500-ton loads over 1-per-cent grades at a speed of sixteen miles an hour, exercising 3440 horse power, or when geared for varying speeds, will haul 800-ton passenger trains at a speed of sixty miles an hour.

The cost of electrical installation will be about $34,000 per mile. Its advantages are stated in an eastern exchange as follows: "The hauling of coal for use in the mountains local locomotive requires neither coal nor water. It carries no tender and has no boilers. It does away with the heavy item of fuel trains and makes way for paving freight trains. It will run over two or even three ordinary railway divisions without injury and at a uniform rate of speed. It will operate with the highest efficiency in the coldest weather. These locomotives will run 1000 miles or more without inspection. The steam locomotives at present in use require looking over every 125 miles and, moreover, while awaiting trains they consume 80 per cent of the coal used when hauling a heavy train. The new engines are always ready to start, they use no power when they are at a standstill, and when breaking heavy trains down a mountainside they return about 30 per cent of the power used in uphill work to the wires, this becoming available for helping the next train up grade."

The day is not very far distant when steam locomotives will be as obsolete as Concord coaches.

WOMEN SOLDIERS.

The National Political League of Great Britain is engaged in the noble work of replacing male agricultural workers called to the front with woman workers. It has a training school where British maidens and matrons are taught the mysteries and miseries of farm work. On the walls of the schoolroom are probably inscribed appropriate mottoes such as "Hoe, everyone that thirsteth," "Cradle the wheat instead of the baby," "Ride the plow, not the auto."

Miss M. A. Bradhurst, chairman of the land council of the league, in a public speech, said that "the women of England were called upon to man the second line of defense, the land." How can a woman "man" a line of defense?

Miss Bradhurst said that the number of women required for immediate work on the farms of England, owing to men being called away, was 100,000.

Capt. Charles Bathurst, M.P., wrote: "It may be that woman's activities in the sphere of food production may prove to be the determining factor in achieving the ultimate success of British arms."

Women have worked on farms in other countries than England. In Belgium they often held the plow and sometimes are hitched to it, and in Pennsylvania—

"Mand Muller, on a summer's day, Raked the meadow sweet with hay."
 Instead of putting 100,000 women at hard field work, why not give them an opportunity to do work as soldiers? Fighting no longer consists of battling with swords and spears. The bayonet is now a useless part of a gun, and cavalry charges have become obsolete. The springing steps of soldiers no longer climb the heights; they descend into the trenches, and cellar fighting has taken the place of field fighting. Machinery does much of the work. A woman can manage a forty-two-centimeter cannon that is discharged at a foe ten miles away, or hurl a stink-bomb at an enemy in a neighboring cellar quite as well as a mere man. She is as brave, as resourceful and as patriotic as a man. Give her a chance to go to the colors.

A balloon ascension will take place at Tickville Saturday week. A large crowd will be present as the man may fall out. Poke Hazley, who has been sitting around all summer, got up yesterday. There was an interesting contest at the Rye Straw store the other day, as to who could keep a feather in the air the longest by blowing it. If the feather had got directly over one of Mrs. Atlas Peck's conversations she would have won without any trouble, according to Atlas.

Raze Barlow dressed up Monday and went to Rye Straw. It was his intention to arrive there smoking a cigar, but the one he had not broke Sunday night.

Dock Hooks, who has gained such widespread favor as a dentist during his leisure hours at the blacksmith shop, pulled the wrong tooth for Slim Pickens Thursday. Slim was satisfied, though, because Dock would not charge him anything for it.

The mail carrier was shot through the hat Wednesday on the road near Bounding Billows. He paid no attention to it, however, as he believes it was somebody trying to make his mule run off.

THOU SHALT NOT.

BY MAJ. BEN C. TRUMAN.

"Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord, thy God in vain" is a commandment rigidly observed by a majority of Christians and Jews throughout the world; but

"Swear not at all" is not so faithfully adhered to, as such exclamations as "By George!" "By Jiminy!" "By Cracker!" "By Gosh!" "By Judas!" "By Jupiter!" "By Gum!" and other like words are often heard and are forbidden by Quakers, Shakers and probably by some other denominations. There are hundreds of such expressions heard daily throughout our land. "Dog gone it" is a favorite saying with a good many who would scorn profanity. I used to know a man in New Hampshire who, when provoked would exclaim "Dog gone it," and another in the same State who used "Dog gone my gizzard" when angry. "Gosh all bemlock" and "Gosh darn my buttons" are often heard throughout New England, while "Great Caesar's ghost" and "Great Caesar's immaculate ghost" are every day expressions. "By Judas" and "Judas Iscariot" are heard every day. I knew three members of one family in Rhode Island who used "George Rice" as their swear words. Throughout the South "Jesus Christ and General Jackson" is often heard. "Jewilkins Christmas" is frequently heard in New England, and are "Great Jehosaphat" and "Great Jemima." In New York one occasionally hears "By St. Bartholemew" and "Dog gone my buttons," and like expressions.

Profanity among army men, especially when on the field of action, is largely indulged in. I was intimately acquainted with all the generals in the Army of Cumberland, and nearly all of them were profane. There were four exceptions: Gen. Rosecrans, who was a devout Catholic, never indulged in profane language; Gen. Garfield, who was a disciple of Christ, never swore, nor did Gen. Howard, who was a rigid churchman, nor Gen. Hayes. But Gens. Sherman, Sheridan, Jeff C. Davis, John H. King, Joe Hooker, Schofield, Tom Crittenden, Kilpatrick, Stoneman, Hazen, Logan, and many others, were exceedingly profane on occasions. The most profane general of all was Turchin. On one occasion he had been swearing uproariously at some teamsters who were urging their mules across a corduroy bridge between Pittsburgh Landing and Corinth when a chaplain who had been listening to him stepped up to him, and wishing to rebuke him in a roundabout way, asked him if he knew that Jesus Christ came into the world to save sinners; the general threw his hands into the air and exclaimed: "Oh! Go to hell with your condemnations!" And this reminds me of a story of a little boy who had been having trouble while milking his mother's cow and who rushed into the house and exclaimed: "Ma, is it wicked to say damn?" And his mother replied that it was, except when you used the words damsite, mill dam, coffer dam, and—"That's it; that's what I want to say; I thought our old cow would coffer dam head off this morning."

Gen. Grant never used profane language. In a conversation with him on the subject one night at the White House, he said: "I have never indulged in profane language. I used a few small cuss words while I was at West Point, but after going to Mexico I concluded that swearing, if not wicked, was extremely vulgar and unnecessary, and I cut it out and have not used a profane word since. Parson Brownlow was the most profane man I have ever known. He once said to me in Nashville that he yielded to no live man in the use of profanity. Horace Greeley was the next most profane man I have ever known; he had no other bad habits, but he could swear like a trooper. Col. John W. Forney could let off strings of epithets when provoked, and so could Simon Cameron, Matt Carpenter, Zach Chandler, Gov. Yates, McDougall, Salisbury, and some other Senators. Newspaper men who could swear roundly were James Gordon Bennett, George D. Prentice, Ben Wood and Erasmus Brooks. Bill Tweed, when he was foreman of big six in New York, and Harry Howard, chief of the New York fire department, in the 1850s, were accomplished users of swear words."

There is less profanity heard among workmen, clerks and people generally than fifty years ago. Women very seldom swear; they have cultivated the cocktail and cigarette habit during the past twenty-five years to an alarming extent, but they seldom or never swear. I have never in my life heard a woman indulge in an oath. Boys of all ages swear less than they did twenty years ago. As a matter of fact, the little polite exclamations of By Jove, By George, By Jiminy and the like have done away with more profane expressions.

Buy Now and Pay the Bill in January

All purchases made from November 15th until December 31st will be charged on the bill rendered January 1st, 1914—if you have a charge account here.

This is a mutually helpful arrangement—enabling you to begin your December shopping at once without adding to your November account, and benefiting us by spreading the holiday business over a longer period.

This plan has been successful for the two past holiday seasons—the only practical plan thus far devised for encouraging early Christmas shopping. Buy now and pay in January.

PLOUGHS FURROW TO POLICE COURT.

GLENDALE MAN CHARGED WITH TAKING MORE THAN HIS SHARE.

(LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.)

GLENDALE, Nov. 25.—Jack Stackdale, proprietor of the Glendale Truck and Transfer Company, is thankful today because of his release on his own recognizance.

He was arrested yesterday on complaint of Mrs. George McKenna for the alleged theft of a new plow from the garage on the McKenna home.

The plow, which is worth about $114, was discovered in Stackdale's stable. Stackdale claims that it was given to him by Frank Showalter, the former owner of the McKenna place, and that he took the plow with the permission of Showalter.

As the latter is supposed to be in custody, it is necessary to reach him in order to settle the controversy.

Stackdale will appear before Judge J. J. Connelley tomorrow morning, when the magistrate will assume the role of Solomon in endeavoring to decide the ownership of the implement which is needed at present on the McKenna place.

WARRIORS BELIEVES.

That the warning sounded recently by the Police Department of the city was turned out to be a false alarm, cause has been shown by the repeated complaints of petty thieving about the city.

Several houses have been entered, and yesterday some enterprising individual entered the basement of one of the schools and rode out on the commiseration new "bike" of one of the pupils busy with his studies upstairs.

An active campaign against all suspicious characters is now being made in many leaving the city in haste.

SCARE IN THEATRE.

VENICE, Nov. 25.—A near-panic resulted tonight in the Neptune Theatre, moving-picture house, when an electric fuse was blown out. The flash from the fuse ignited a small roll of time and a cry of "fire" followed. One woman, who was caught in a crush for the door, fainted and was carried out by Officer Charles Sprankling.

FIFTY TURKS CAPTURED.

VENICE, Nov. 25.—Fifty turkeys were turned out of the streets of Venice today. The "turks," as soon as they were liberated, were made the center of a wild rush on the part of an assembled crowd, each person of which grabbed for a Thanksgiving dinner. The birds were turned loose at three different points in the city.

Delicious Brown Bread

A Simple Recipe Popular With Housewives All Over the Country.

As an accompaniment to that dish so popular with the American public—"Boston Baked Beans"—brown bread is in almost as great demand. The making of good brown bread, therefore, should be one of the accomplishments of every efficient housewife. The next time you serve baked beans, try this little recipe for making the brown bread to go with them:

¾ cup yellow cornmeal; ¼ cup Kingsford's Cornstarch; ½ cup flour; 1 cup rye meal; 1½ heaping teaspoons soda; 1 teaspoon salt, 1 cup Karo Syrup; ¾ cup sour milk. Sift the dry ingredients together till thoroughly mixed. Add the Karo and stir in the sour milk. Mix well and steam four hours.

The Karo Syrup referred to in this recipe, as well as the Kingsford's Cornstarch, can be obtained at all modern grocers. Satisfactory results cannot be promised if inferior ingredients are used. Karo Syrup is used by discriminating housekeepers and eminent chefs in all parts of the country—and you can safely be guided by their experience.

In ordering Karo Syrup ask your grocer for the little Karo cook book containing hundreds of valuable recipes for making breads, biscuits, rolls, griddle cakes, waffles, cakes, cookies, candies and hundreds of other delicacies—a real trial of which will make the family happy.

Good for Constipation.

Chamberlain's Tablets are excellent for constipation. They are pleasant to take and mild and gentle in effect. Obtainable everywhere.—[Advertisement.]

"Universal" Electric Grill

Open Saturday until 9 p.m.

This appliance is probably adaptable to a wider range of uses than any other single electric device obtainable. For toasting crackers, preparing boiled frostings for cakes, making gravies, etc., nothing else is so handy. It will also prepare a whole meal on the table. The heated plates are made of heavy cast nickel and highly polished.

MOVEMENTS IN SOCIETY.

THANKSGIVING found the City of the Angels in an angelic mood, with an abundance of sunshine and good cheer to help count many blessings.

It was a day largely devoted to family gatherings, though the big football game between the University of California and the University of Southern California at Washington Park attracted the college sets.

The Los Angeles Athletic Club gave a beautifully appointed dinner-dance for their members and guests, several hundred going to the palatial club the evening—a brilliant climax to a day in the open.

Then, too, any number of the social elite motored down to Hotel Virginia, Long Beach, for the de luxe tennis tournament, and many stayed for the evening. A tea-dance was given before dinner, and at 11 o'clock a supper-dance was held. The gold-silver was used for dancing earlier in the evening.

For the dinner, the list included most of Southern California's blue book and directory, grouped in families, just according to relationship, and a merry lot of entertaining it afforded. And just because Los Angeles is nothing if not generous, the hospitality was extended to include many people without their loved ones upon this day of feasting and thanksgiving who are temporarily ensconced at hotels or in apartments.

With Mr. and Mrs. Loren D. Dale were Mr. and Mrs. Hans Jevne, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hughes Braly, John Brady, Jr., and Mrs. W. Rose Campbell, Miss Genevieve Murray and Mr. and Mrs. Herman Heneberger. The exquisite table was centered with richly colored fruits arranged in a horn of plenty, with corresponding suggestive favors and appointments.

Judge and Mrs. Stephen C. Hubbell always make the most of this day and had with them yesterday at their home at No. 1000 Arapahoe a family circle numbering fourteen, seated around a sumptuous board done in autumnal fruits and foliage. Mr. and Mrs. William P. Jeffries (the latter formerly Miss Lora Hubbell), Mr. and Mrs. W. L. McCartney, with Kathleen and Barbara; Mrs. Nora McCartney, Miss Edith Moore, Miss Anna Davis, Messrs. J. R. Cox of Pasadena, and Owen Churchill, Jr., with Mr. and Mrs. Churchill.

Quiet Wedding.

Miss Susie M. Mathews, daughter of the late A. W. Mathews, a wealthy Whittier resident, was married to William B. Tennyson at the parsonage of the Presbyterian Church in Whittier yesterday morning. The wedding was very quiet. The minister who performed the ceremony, Rev. Louis Tinsley, Mrs. Cora Collins, sister of the young woman, and Mrs. D. W. Douglass, another member of the family, were the only persons present.

Immediately after the wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Tennyson started on an automobile honeymoon, which includes a tour of Southern California with a motor coach. The groom has for some years been connected with the office of the assistant business manager of The Times. Prior to the war in Mexico he had interned in that country. Mr. and Mrs. Tennyson will make their home in Los Angeles on their return.

Engagement Announced.

Types The Deciding Straw

By Sara Moore

Rupert was not a cynic, although he had been a shoe clerk for six years. Sometimes when a 300-pound woman tried to walk on heels three inches high and an inch thick at the weak-point he wished himself back in the shipping room. But his soul was too mild for unkindness, too trusting to be malicious. Day after day he heard patrons tell about the sizes they wore without entirely losing faith in human beings. So trusting was his disposition that, although at least three women a day insisted that there was no hole in their stockings when they left home, he never let doubt cross his mind, much less his expression.

His fellow-clerk tolerated Rupert. His customers liked him. He never irritated his employers by having ambitions.

His one rise from shipping clerk to salesman gratified his feeble vanity and gave him easier work at better pay. His expenses were fixed and he managed to sustain life modestly and even saved gently. Because he read nothing but the sport page, headlines and trade journals, Rupert's nation died young. It had never lured him into emotions that might make him fall in love and (or) acquire a wife. His one source of excitement was the rush of business at school-opening time, the holidays, Easter.

Never did Rupert question fate, except when they put a stocking counter on his floor and his conservative soul made a protest that it was indecent for a man to sell hosiery to females. He experienced the first acute agony of his tranquil life when it became necessary for a customer to define an "outside" to him. He might have rusted into dull middle age, but for the benevolent impudence of Myrtell, the gum-chewing girl who was hired to wrap parcels, but who devoted herself to minding other people's business, because her talent in that line was touched with genius.

"Ain't she got no girl?" she demanded one rainy day, when few customers disturbed their leisure.

"Girl?" gulped Rupert.

"Ain't married, are you?" continued the young person, looking accusatory at the furtive which hung loosely from an unresponsive thread.

"Married? Him? Who'd have a back number that wears ready-made ties?" jeered the red-headed clerk.

"Some dame with her eyes open, who'd know more'n enough to pick a back number at the price he's selling 'em?" snapped Rupert.

"You oughta get a huckle on Lotta these hall-room girls would jump at a home with a nice, dependable, kind husband like."

"Nice, dependable, kind?" scoffed the red-head. "Sounds like the description of a fool."

Myrtell's hint did not kindle Rupert's imagination. As you know, if you haven't skipped, it died young. But it did appeal to his common sense, and he began to think of romantic purposes. He began to dream of a back porch of his own. He found the one he wanted long before he picked the red-headed clerk to believe her Laura Jean Lathrop talks had fallen on barren ground.

Then, one day, one of those round, shiny-cheeked women with a brisk laugh and capable hands came in for shoes. She was a pleasant, easily pleased and quick. As she left the store, Rupert went to the desk and looked for her address in the directory.

"I'm going to marry that woman," he confided to Myrtell as he copied it in a little book.

And he did.

After the wedding, the parcel wrapped per put the screws on the blushing bridegroom.

"You made up your mind sudden like. Was it a case of love at first sight?" she cried.

"Love? Nothing," snorted Rupert indignantly. "It was common sense."

For six years I have been selling shoes to salesladies, stenographers, school teachers and all. My wife was the first woman I ever saw who didn't wear silk stockings. The minute I looked at her feet, I made up my mind to fall in love with her. She had on plain, lisle hosiery, and I wasn't going to let her get away."

OLDEST NURSE PASSES AWAY.

SERVED IN CIVIL WAR AND IN FEDERAL HOSPITAL.

Ninety-one Years Old and was Chaplain of Woman's Relief Corps. Man's Body Found in Canyon is Identified—Woman's Corpse Still Baffles Officers.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SAN BERNARDINO, Nov. 25.—Mrs. Martha Matilda Kendall, aged 91, a resident of San Bernardino for about forty years, and said to be the oldest nurse who saw duty during the Civil War, passed away at her home here today. She entered the nursing service while her husband and two sons were fighting on the Union side, and after losing her husband, became chief matron of the Soldiers' Hospital at Nicotown, Pa., the second largest Federal hospital established during the war.

Mrs. Kendall was chaplain of the local Woman's Relief Corps at the time of her death and a past president of the organization. She will be buried with great honors Friday in this city. She leaves two sons, George W. and Robert S. Subers, both of this city.

BODY IDENTIFIED.

The identity of the man whose body was found near Little Mountain north of the city yesterday was determined today by Mrs. C. P. Kelley and her son, Albie Kelley, with whom he had lived several months ago while working in the city. The dead man is O. H. Bailey, an orange worker, and he sought self-destruction because of his continual brooding over being deaf to Kelley. "What's the use of living when you cannot hear?" About three months ago he left the Kelley home, leaving a note saying, "I guess I will not see you again, so good-bye." The Kelleys thought that Bailey merely was leaving the city, as he had done many times.

A daughter in Portland is on the way south to make arrangements for the funeral.

MYSTERY STILL.

No further ground was gained today toward the solution of the Urbila Lake poison and drowning mystery and authorities have decided to place the body of the woman in a vault in the hope that she may be identified. At the end of a year if efforts to establish who she is fails, she will be interred.

The clothes, which she wore in the fatal plunge in the lake, have been placed about her body, which will be shown to those who, in the future, may be able to throw some light on the mystery that has thus far defeated every attempt to clear up. The inquest was held today, establishing the fact that she came to her death by drowning.

MONEY REFUNDED.

The sum of $25,000 advanced by San Bernardino county as California's share of the constructive cost of the Colorado River bridge at Needles was refunded today by the government and the amount was turned back into the highway fund, from which it was loaned to further construction of the bridge. The county put $10,000 into the bridge.

WELCOMES STORK, THEN DALL.

[New York World.] "The baby is born and I am ready to accept sentence."

This was the declaration of Michael J. Sheehan, former mayor of Chicago, when he was charged with stealing letters from the mails. Sentence had been suspended upon his plea that he might be at home when the stork arrived.

Judge Carpenter sentenced Sheehan to sixty days in the Bridewell.

FOOD VALUE OF HONEY.

It is Purer and More Wholesome than Commercial Jellies and is Splendid for Cooking Purposes.

[Washington Star.] The food value of honey is not generally comprehended. In fact, honey as a rule is regarded merely as a pleasant syrup to children, spread upon bread. It is much purer and more wholesome than many of the so-called jellies of commerce.

In cooking, too, honey often can be substituted for sugar. For example, a rhubarb betty is greatly improved by the use of honey instead of sugar. The dessert is made in the usual way—first the bread crumbs, then a layer of short lengths of rhubarb, covered with honey and a sprinkling of cinnamon; repeating the layers until the dish is filled. Butter is dotted on the top, and the pudding baked in the oven for thirty minutes.

Apples baked in honey furnish a dish that is both novel and delicious. The apples are cored and placed in a pan with a lump of butter in each cavity. A cup of honey then is poured over them and the pan put in a slow oven to cook until they are tender.

A rhubarb sauce made with honey instead of sugar and mixed with cream makes a very palatable dessert. The mixture should be put in individual molds, and when turned out should be served with a teaspoon of honey added.

Some persons contend that honey added to a pot of beans before baking is a great improvement over the usual quantity of molasses. It certainly gives a very delicate flavor to sweet potatoes in reheating them. The potatoes can be sliced or cut lengthwise. Each slice or finger is dipped in honey and laid on a buttered pan. Butter is dotted generously over the top, and the dish is placed on the oven and baked until the potatoes are brown. Only those who have eaten sweet potatoes prepared in this way can fully appreciate them. A sprinkling of pepper and salt may be added before serving, if this seasoning is favored.

HOW WORRY HURTS.

It is a Question of Personal Hygiene As Mental Disquietude Affects Stomach, Appetite and Glands.

[London Tri-Blis:] Worry has come to be a question of hygiene rather than of religion. Whether immortal or not, the doctor tells us. Whatever its effect upon the soul, it is known to injure the body.

If the medical man is correct in his latest deductions, many of the most distressing of our physical ailments are due to worry alone.

The pulse of a worried man is irregular. It beats intermittently and its force varies greatly. He sighs frequently. His respiration is repressed. He is likely to be pale. His extremities are cold.

The stomach is likely to suffer also. The nervous system which disturbs the heart's functions plays havoc with digestion often. Recent observations demonstrate that when one is in extreme worry there are relaxation and decreased motility throughout the entire alimentary tract. The appetite fails. The secretions are disturbed. Should the sympathy continue, the subject is almost certain to become a confirmed dyspeptic.

The effect of worry upon the internal glands has not been fully studied. Enough is known, however, to assure the physician that it affects the secretions of these glands very seriously through the sympathetic nerves. It thus becomes an important agent in producing exophthalmic goitre and a train of other ills that can only be defined when the real functions of the glands in question are more adequately studied. Insomnia, a most fruitful source of physical ills, is a certain consequence of worry. Diabetes is often due to the same cause.
